Rules for Longevity.

Patrick Henry Thompson and his wife, who are living at Lexington, after sixty years of wedded happiness, and who are still hale and hearty with fair prospects of making a full century run, furnish this code of rules for longevity:

1. Have someone to love.
2. Take care of the body.
3. Sleep early and long.
4. Eat plain, wholesome food.
5. Take much gentle exercise.
6. Live in the fresh air.
7. Treat your wife as a sweet-heart.
8. Don't read immoral books.
9. Be temperate in all things.

Too Much for George.

"Secon' helpin'? they didn't eben git de first helpin'."

"What was the reason? Did you discover that you had left your money at home?"

"No, sah; dat wasn't what was de matter at all. We went down street jus' as happy as you please sah, one gal on each arm, you know an' when we got in sight ob de ice cream saloon I read dat sign, an' I fought I should drap dead."

"What did the sign say?"

"It said, 'ice cream, $1.25 per gal,' I had two gals, you know, besides mawself, an' I hadn't no pocket ful of money. Say, Mister? 'Well?'"

"Do you fink dat one ob dem trusts has got hold ob de ice cream business?"—Ex.

To Get Rid of Flies.

People in the country who are annoyed by flies should remember that clusters of the fragrant clover, which grows abundantly by nearly every roadside, if hung in the room and left to dry and shed its faint fragrant perfume through the air, will drive away more flies than sticky saucers of molasses and other fly-traps and fly-papers can ever collect.—Ex.

He must be blind, indeed, who cannot see that place-seeking has, become a great evil in this country. Although positively announced by the President that no commission would be given in the new volunteer regiments, for the Philippines, to any man without military experience, Washington has been full of Senators, Representatives and other prominent men, each acting as though securing a commission for some constituent or relative was the most important question before the President, and not a few of those for whom commissions are asked are young men who have had absolutely no military experience, and very little of any sort calculated to teach them to take care of themselves, not to mention taking care of others. The pressure became so embarrassing to the President, as those who brought it intended it should, that he carried the matter before the Cabinet. The result was unanimous support of his position. The plan agreed upon is to appoint all the officers above the rank of captain from the regular army officers; to give proper parties in each State the right to name one captain and one first lieutenant from among the volunteer officers from that State in the war with Spain; and to appoint the second lieutenant from volunteers, regardless of States, and regardless of their rank in the service, solely on their military records, as shown in the files of the war department. The wisdom of this decision is beyond question, but the pressure will continue until the last commission has been signed.

An Evasive Answer.

"John," said a clergyman to his factotum, "I shall be very busy this afternoon, and if any one calls I do not wish to be disturbed."

"All right, sir. Will I tell them you are not in?"

"No, John, that would be a lie."

"An' what'll I say, yer reverence?"

"Oh, just put them off with an evasive answer."

At supper time John was asked if any one had called.

"Yes, there did," was the answer.

"What did you tell him?" asked the clerymen.

"I gave him an evasive answer."

"How was that," inquired his reverence.

"He asked me was yer reverence in, an' I sez to him, sez I, 'Was your grandmother a hoot owl?'"—Ex.

South American Advertising.
"An advertiser has to stick to the truth in South America," said the representative of a large shipping concern to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man. "I know that seems incredible, but it's absolutely true. Some years ago a dealer in New Orleans sent an assorted lot of patent medicines to an American agent at Santiago, Chili. Among the stuff was a lot of toothache dorps, which were warranted on the bottle to cure the worst case of toothache in ten minutes.

"Here nobody would take such an assertion seriously, but down there it is different. The first man who bought a bottle made an immediate application and then pulled out his watch. When ten minutes elapsed and the toothache calmly continued to ache he was furious and at once had the agent arrested. The poor fellow was fined $1,000 and sentenced to three months imprisonment in jail. Through the efforts of the American consul the imprisonment was knocked off, but he had to pay the fine and it broke him up in business.

"That story is absolutely true, as can be testified to by a dozen people now in the city. It is sad to fancy the effect on commercial circles generally if such a law was enforced in the United States."—Exchange.

An exchange truly says: "The various County School Superintendents should impress at the coming school institutes the importance of all teachers being subscribers to their county papers. Most of the County Superintendents make their announcements through the papers, and incidentally the teachers might find something else in the papers worth reading. It is conservatively estimated that not one-third of the Kentucky teachers are subscribers to their county papers—but these same papers are expected to brag on their school entertainments just the same."

"How Many Die a Minute."

The average duration of human life is about 33 years. One fourth of the inhabitants die before they reach their seventh year, one half before they reach their seventeenth year. Of every 1,000 persons, only one reaches the age of 100 years; of every 100, only six reach the age of 65, and not more than one in 500 live to see the eightieth year. There are about 1,500,000,000 inhabitants on the globe, of these 50,000,000 die every year, 137,736 per day, 595 per hour, about 90 per minute, three in every two seconds.

refuses pie at supper, and the widow who "lives only for the children and to keep his grave green," and keep both eyes on the fellow who never told a lie when he hacked a cherry tree."—Winchester Democrat.

Kentucky reformers demand that Clay county be abolished in order to get rid of the feud which rages there. This would be a good deal like erasing the equatorial line from the map of the world in order to get rid of the heat.—New York Mail and Express.

ARE YOU A DEMOCRAT?

An old adage reads: "There is a place for everything," and for everything to be in its place, the LOUISVILLE DISPATCH should find a place in the home of every DEMOCRAT in the SUNNY SOUTH. The Dispatch is the people's paper, owned by the people, and is always ready to fight for the cause of the people. IT STANDS SQUARELY ON THE CHICAGO PLATFORM, without the aid or consent of the Gold Bug Monopolies, and a fair comparison of its news service (now being furnished over leased wires by the New York Sun, the Chicago Inter Ocean and the Northern Press Association) with that of any other paper, will fully verify its motto, "If you see it in the Dispatch it's so, and if it's so it is always in the Dispatch."

The Dispatch also has a staff of over 300 active correspondents in the South, and will POSITIVELY GUARANTEE MORE THAN DOUBLE THE SOUTHERN NEWS of any other Louisville paper. Get the Dispatch; it gives the news and tells the truth about it.

Daily, 8 pages; Sunday, 24 pages; Weekly, 8 pages. We club with the Weekly Dispatch at the remarkably low price of 75 Cents.

G. F. P.
(Gerstle's Female Panacea)

CURED MENTAL TROUBLE AND DROPSY. A few weeks before our second child was born, three years ago, my wife had local dropsy very bad. We had two good doctors with her but she was not relieved. Her mind became affected and we sent her to the asylum at Bolivar, Tenn., and at the end of four months we brought her home sound and well. But last summer just before our third child was born, the dropsy again appeared and we were very uneasy about her. We gave her G. F. P. and I am glad to say the dropsy disappeared and she is sound and well, and has a fine healthy boy baby. Jones, Tenn. D. E. McNEILL.
